A Brazilian Foreign Ministry official told the reporting officer that no boundary dispute currently exists between Brazil and the French Guiana and, therefore, he was not aware of any dispute in the area of the headwaters of the Rio Oiapoque (Fleuve Oyapock). He added that, to the best of his knowledge, the boundary west of the Rio Oiapoque in the Tumuc-Humuc Mountains has already been demarcated.

A detailed description of the boundary is not available at the Foreign Ministry, but they will try to obtain one from another Brazilian government agency.
